- It appears that as the number of points and the number of uncertainties increases the parameters closely centralize around a mean, whereas as they decrease these parameters seem to fluctuate away and become unpredictable.

- The standard deviation and mean appear to act as expected.

Parameter b vs a

Parameter c vs a

Parameter c vs b

reduced chi^2

Parameter a

Parameter b

Parameter c

chi^2